

Editorial

We at Catholic Theological Union wish to thank the many people who over the years have contributed to New Theology Review in myriad ways. A joint project with Washington Theological Union, NTR was intentionally designed as a resource for women and men in ministry in the American Catholic Church. First published in 1988, the journal has addressed a wide range of themes enabling readers to keep up with developments across theological disciplines, particularly as they impact the practice of ministry. In September 2012, reflecting the challenges of sustaining a print journal, NTR shifted to a fully online open source journal. Given the difficulty of sustaining this mode of publishing, publication of NTR is being suspended.

The faculties of Catholic Theological Union and Washington Theological Union are to be commended for their dedication, hard work, and many contributions over the past thirty years. Thanks go to the many, many individuals who served on the Editorial Board over the years. In particular, I would like to thank those who served as Editors beginning with Robert J. Schreiter, CPPS, and Kenneth R. Himes, OFM, who oversaw the first issue of the journal. Those who followed in their footsteps include: John Pawlikowski, OSM; James Wallace, CSsR; Robert Waznak, SSL; Edward Foley, Capuchin; Daniel Grigassy, OFM; Brid Long, SSI; Kevin O'Neil, CSsR; Joseph Mindling, OFM Cap; Richard McCarron; Dawn Nothwehr, OSF; Michel Andraos; Carmen Nanko-Fernández; vanThanh Nguyen, SVD; Melody Layton McMahan; Antonio D. Sison, CPPS; Neomi DeAnda; Maria Cimperman, RSCJ; Robin Ryan, CP; Daniel P. Horan, OFM; Anne McGowan; and Dianne Bergant, CSA. Particular thanks go to Melody Layton McMahan; for the past six years, she served as Managing Editor and has worked tirelessly on publishing the open-source volumes.

Finally, we thank the many readers who over the years have been loyal fans of NTR. We are in the process of finding a new location for the complete NTR archives, and notice will be posted when that has been accomplished. For the time being, volumes 10 through 30 can be accessed at <http://newtheologyreview.org/index.php/ntr/issue/archive>.
