Welcome to the fresh, renewed look of New Theology Review! This journal is now a peer-reviewed publication of Catholic Theological Union, through the Paul Bechtold Library. It now comes to you as a fully online, open access journal that is available to anyone, anywhere in the world. Before this issue was even published, we already had readers registered from Korea, New Zealand, and the UK.

We invite you to submit an article to us. New Theology Review (NTR) will include peer-reviewed articles that are of interest to pastoral ministers, and while our deadline for the upcoming Vatican II issue is November 1, we are always accepting articles for peer-review that fit our guidelines. Rounding out our issues will be two or three current and topical book reviews. NTR will publish five columns; we will continue two from the former print version days: Signs of the Times, which will focus on reading the issues of the day in light of the Gospel, and Word and Worship, which has always focused on preaching and liturgical life. We are adding three: Catechesis and Faith Formation, which will cover these important topics for people of all ages; Theology at the Cutting Edge, providing up to date knowledge about theological issues; and New Voices, a place to hear from select young theologians recommended by our faculty and Advisory Board.

We encourage you to register now! If you register, you will receive email confirmation when our next issue, a celebration of the 50th anniversary of the opening of Vatican II, is published. Also, you will find updates on the announcement page of the journal website at http://newtheologyreview.org and on Facebook at facebook.com/NewTheologyReview. Prospective writers, please see http://newtheologyreview.org/index.php/ntr/about/submissions#authorGuidelines.

Sincerely yours,
